

Bisexuality vs.
Pansexuality
May 2018-February 2019

655 participants

8 – Bi vs. Pan

This survey includes 75 German speaking
und 580 English speaking people.

8 – Bi vs. Pan

Do you identify yourself as bisexual or pansexual?
(German, English speaking, together)

This survey shows:

German speakers call themselves way more often (only or mainly) bisexual: 80% vs. 50%.

German speakers call themselves hardly (only or mainly) pansexual: 5% vs. 38%.

Both labels fit somehow for 38% vs. 37%.

8 – Bi vs. Pan

Clear Favourite:

"Everyone should call themselves what they want!"

English speakers are all more inclusive:

Bi-and pansexuals should cooperate here 84%,
for German speakers only 64%,
but that is still a clear majority!

Prejudice or seeing of disadvantages is also higher for German speakers:

Only 44% recognise that
"bisexual" is not limited to 2 genders (English 69%).
And 13% see discrimination through the label (English 2%).

8 – Bi vs. Pan

The individual proposals include e.g.:

- More working together,
- Seeing more similarities rather than differences,
- no definition of each other's identity,
- joint activities, e.g. at prides,
- Talking more to each other,
- "Shut up for once and listen!" 😊

8 – Bi vs. Pan

Evaluated by Frank (bijou@bine.net) for the German BiNe - Bisexuelles Netzwerk e. V.
(www.bine.net/content/umfragen)